TANDY INTRODUCES NEW TANDY 3000 HL PERSONAL COMPUTER WITH PC/XT COMPATIBILITY

FORT WORTH, TEXAS--Tandy Corporation announced today its new PC/XT compatible, the Tandy™ 3000 HL personal computer runs four times faster than the PC/XT, features greater expandability, smaller physical size and runs on the advanced MS-DOS™ version 3.2 operating system.

"Priced at $1699 for the floppy disk version, the Tandy 3000 HL is the only real performance enhanced alternative in the PC/XT compatible arena," stated John Roach, chairman and chief executive officer of Tandy Corporation. "Users with large spreadsheets, database files, or networking will find the significant speed increase a true advantage. By combining the excellent price, the many features and our nationwide service and support network of over 270 locations, Tandy's new 3000 HL represents a breakthrough in price performance. Tandy offers an extraordinary value with state-of-the-art features and performance in high quality compatibles."

The Tandy 3000 HL utilizes the Intel™ 80286 micro-processor operating at a switchable 4/8 MHz clock speed. Standard configuration includes 512K RAM, expandable to 640K on the main board. There are three front accessible mounting slots for internal devices, including one floppy and two hard drives, or two floppies and one hard drive. Another option is a new 5 1/4" internal disk cartridge system which can be installed in one of the front drive slots.

Standard features include a parallel printer port, a real-time clock with battery backup, an industry standard keyboard, and a provision for an optional plug-in 80287 math co-processor.

A full range of options will be supported through 7 expansions slots, 6 of which are open in the standard configuration. Those options include a 360KB floppy drive, 1.2 MB floppy drive, 20 or 40 MB hard drive, serial (RS-232-C) board, 2 MB memory board, and a mono or color graphics display board.

The new Tandy 3000 HL is now available at Radio Shack® stores, Radio Shack® Computer Centers, Plus Computer Centers and participating Radio Shack dealers nationwide. Tandy is the leading manufacturer of PC compatibles.
